

Privacy Policy

John Haynes Limited is committed to protecting your privacy and the confidentiality of your personal data. We will always treat your data with the utmost care and we will never share it or sell it to other companies for marketing or research purposes.

When you contact us, whether by telephone, through our website or by e-mail, we collect the data you have given to us in order to reply with the information you need.

We aim to obtain your consent to process this data, for example, by asking you to agree to our use of cookies.

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer's hard drive by your web browser when you visit any website. They allow information gathered on one web page to be stored until it is needed for use on another, allowing a website to provide you with a personalised experience and the website owner with statistics about how you use the website so that it can be improved.

When you first visit our website, we ask you whether you wish us to use cookies. If you choose not to accept them, we shall not use them for your visit except to record that you have not consented to their use for any other purpose.

We use cookies to measure our website's performance. This may include anonymous data including your browser type and version, time zone and geographical location, browser plug-in types and versions, operating system and platform and other technology on the devices you use to access this website. Anonymous data is data that does not identify you as an individual.

Your web browser should allow you to delete any you choose. It also should allow you to prevent or limit their use.

You may withdraw your consent at any time by instructing us info@johnhaynes.co.uk. However, if you do so, you may not be able to use our website or our services further.

Our policy complies with the Data Protection Act 2018 (Act) accordingly incorporating the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

The law requires us to tell you about your rights and our obligations to you in regard to the processing and control of your personal data. We do this now, by requesting that you read the information provided at <http://www.knowyourprivacyrights.org>
